

An Automated Future

Should judgment be ruled by an automatic machine?

Should the gritty jobs of a worker, a true worker, be left to bolts and gears?

The investigators, and the curious,

The problem solvers, the intellectuals

Should never, or rather, could never

Be replaced by a project,

A collage of metal,

With no goals or prospect

Could never surpass the complexity of its maker